2022 Transformational Teaching & Learning Conference

Teaching and Learning Change
May 4, 2022

https://ttlc.tamu.edu

The mission of the Transformational Teaching & Learning Conference (TTLC) is to celebrate and promote a culture of teaching excellence and innovation at Texas A&M University. TTLC 2022 will showcase the theme Teaching and Learning Change in which we recognize how focusing on relationships, resilience, and reflection can better prepare graduates for the future. This year will include one in-person day with several invited plenary sessions including a keynote and workshop with José Bowen, remarks from the provost, and TED style talks by the recent Presidential Professor for Teaching Excellence (PPTE) and University Professor for Undergraduate Teaching Excellence (UPUTE) recipients. Additionally, there will be recorded presentations submitted by instructors like yourself, available beginning on May 4th and then thereafter via ttlc.tamu.edu.

Apply to Submit a Recorded Presentation

- Propose a recorded presentation you wish to submit (500 words or less). In your narrative describe the:
  - Presentation objectives
  - Target audience
  - Connection with the conference theme of Teaching and Learning Change
  - Best practices/innovative techniques featured
- Predict the length of the recording, not to exceed eight minutes.
- Provide up to five keywords. These words and the title of your presentation will allow others to find your presentation and will determine where your presentation occurs in the "virtual conference program." Consider words that might help identify a particular approach, a topic area, a particular outcome, etc.

Application Review

- Proposals will be reviewed by the TTLC Program committee according to the rubric provided.
- Please submit your proposal at tx.ag/ttlccfp.
- Proposals are due Wednesday, February 16, 2022.
- Notifications of acceptance will be sent by Wednesday, March 11, 2022.
- Contact the TTLC Program committee at ttlc@tamu.edu for more information.
Proposal Review Rubric

All proposals will be peer reviewed by the program committee.
